Description:

After the customer has made the payment, the amount paid is put under the review and it generally takes 1-2 business days to actually credit into the Merchant Account. The time between the transaction and addition of amount in the merchant account is called funding time. And the process is called funding. Every merchant owner knows that cash flow is essential to a business' survival. That includes credit and debit sales, which go through your merchant account before they reach your bank account. A lot can happen between that initial swipe or dip of the card and the point at which the funds arrive in your account, which begs the question — how can you get merchant funds fast?To know more visit <https://goo.gl/adu...>
