Description:

The best solution will be to migrate your Iron speed application to ASP.Net MVC before it gets too late. Many users have already migrated their application to another Microsoft platform or MVC and remaining have started to migrate their Iron speed application to MVC since there is no support left once your Iron speed software stop working. Many of you guys already posting comment about software stopped working and they are stuck.MVC is a standard design pattern that many developers are familiar with. Some types of Web applications will benefit from the MVC framework. Others will continue to use the traditional ASP.NET application pattern that is based on Web Forms and post backs. Other types of Web applications...
