Description:

The Fluid Audio FX50 Studio Monitor is a great speaker that offers a modern take on a classic technology the Coaxial design. Exceptional care & attention has been taken in terms of the actual hardware & the preciseness of the audio quality. It features a 25mm silk dome tweeter in a coax configuration making it a point source device. Because of this, it displays a better off-axis response than a conventional design, all in a very compact footprint - making it one of the best studio monitors in its price range.
