Description:

Diamonds again reigned supreme during the 1950's. In June 1951, the French edition of Vogue published an article entitled 'A Diamond is Forever' The diamonds reputation was also enhanced during this estate period by the song, 'Diamonds are a Girl's Best Friend', sung by Marilyn Monroe in the 1953 film Gentlemen Prefer Blondes. Although diamonds were the most popular gemstone, emeralds, rubies and sapphires were often used to add a touch of color to otherwise monochromatic evening creations. To all you ladies, who want a new best friend, or gentlemen who want to give your wives or girlfriends a 'forever present', we have a large collection of Antique, Estate, Diamond and precious gemstone pieces from both the...
