Description:

Children who have speech, communication, or speech disorders can be assisted by Speech pathologists for children. They can recognize the difficulties in communication that children suffering from problems with communication have when they are under five years old. Speech pathologists, often called speech therapists, are specialists in the field of communication and problems with language. Children who have difficulties communicating are assisted by speech therapists as well as developmental psychologists. Empower Therapy offers the Speech Therapy program, which is managed by certified Speech-Language Therapists. They can diagnose eating and communication disorders and develo...
