Description:

Ideally the right fit for a data analyst would be a company that provides data analysis services to other companies. However, there are other arenas like ecommerce, IT, telecom etc. which can prove to be very beneficial for a data analyst as an employee. However, the choice of industry also depends on the candidates experience and their expertise. One thing that a candidate should be careful about other than the salary offered is the culture of the company. There is no point joining a company only to learn later that their culture does not suit you. This is where employment portals come into the picture like OPTnation which is a portal that brings together the candidates and recruiters on the same platform. The...
