Email marketing is best tool to target new clients or to get in touch with your existing clients, no doubt its cost effective, easy and meaningful medium. But to send promotional emails, newsletters or transactional emails at huge quantity on daily bases is not that much easy these days. You can send thousands of emails or emails in millions using your normal hosting account or website server. You need proper resources and a good service provider who allows you to do that efficiently at affordable rates. To have a successful open rate or delivery rate you need to make sure your provider has that capability to do so. They need to be expert and should have a clean IP's network to transport your emails to your cus...
